

Meet Our March A-Lister: Adam Doleac, Musician

“Take things one day at a time, and don’t forget to enjoy the little victories.”

—Adam Doleac, Musician

Singer-songwriter Adam Doleac is no stranger to the spotlight. Adam was playing baseball at the University of Southern Mississippi when he decided to take a leap of faith and begin his music career. From there he moved to Nashville, Tennessee, to pursue his passion for country music. Adam’s positive attitude and his personal mission to “work hard and not expect anything in return” have helped him become successful in his field. He spends the majority of his time on tour and is able to connect with audiences around the country through his music. Adam loves flying Southwest® and often meets fans while traveling. Thank you, Adam, for your loyalty to Southwest as well as your commitment to music!

Do Your Best “There is no magic formula for success. You just have to do well each and every day.”

Precious Cargo “I fly Southwest because I know my instruments are in good hands. I always leave my flight feeling stress-free and ready to take the stage.”

Finding Muses “I often get inspiration from those around me. It can be a person I meet along the way, or even something on one of my Southwest flights. You never know!”
